Simple Function

Write a simple program that calls a function named read() that takes in input a number A and returns the square of the number

Input
The first line contains the number A.

Output
The output contains the square number B.

Sample input   Sample output

12	144
8	64
34	1156